THE CITY OF SEGAN.

The Chinese do not forget, and to them Segan will seem a more natural residence for the Emperor than Peking itself, which, after all, is to a race with whom time does not count, a city of yesterday. It was selected because of its comparative nearness to the seats of Manchu power, a reason which since the advance of Russia has died away. Segan is ready for the reception of the most ceremonious and luxurious court in Asia. The inmates of the imperial palace have lived a secluded life until the idea of change appeals to them as it appeals to us.

The climate of Segan is said to be inviting. The city is full of palaces, which have been carefully kept up; it is better supplied with provisions even than Peking, and, being a great center of trade, it swarms with merchants, shopkeepers, artisans, and all the classes that help to insure comfort and luxury to a wealthy court.

There are now more people in Segan than in Peking, and they are now more prosperous, while they are, it is believed, devoted to the dynasty which in 1887-70, saved them from the Mohammedan rebels who would have converted them by force.

Segan occupies perhaps the very best strategic position in China. All the great roads converge on it—one in particular stretches straight to Peking—and it has communication by water through the Hoang-Ho and the great canal, with every portion of the empire. It is protected on three sides by mountains and on the fourth by the river, and is well fortified after the ancient fashion which the Chinese will soon learn to improve. They are master masons, if they are nothing else. It is, moreover, protected by its distance from everywhere.

The maritime powers could not attempt to march an army 750 miles through the very thick of China, while a few flatboats sunk in the reaches of the Hoang-Ho would render access by water absolutely impossible.—[London Spectator.]

A WONDERFUL CURE

OF DIARRHOEA.
A Prominent Virginia Editor Had Almost Given Up, but Was Brought Back to Perfect Health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.—Read His Editorial.

From the Times, Hillsville, Va.
I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and also some testimonials stating how this remedy had been used with success, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man today and feel as well as I ever did in my life.—[O. R. Moore. Sold by all druggists.]

Poisonous toadstools resembling mushrooms have been found in this year. Be sure to use only the genuine. Observe the same care when you ask for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. There are poisonous counterfeits. DeWitt's is the only original Witch Hazel Salve. It is safe and certain cure for piles and all skin diseases.

Beauty is Blood Deep.
Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic, clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Begin to do so by banishing pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets—beauty for ten cents. All druggists, satisfaction guaranteed, 25c, 50c, 75c.
